[display means on which a window is displayed;]
input means for specifying [an arbitrary] a portion of [the] a window[; and] wherein the managing means [for outputting, to a programmable controller corresponding to the window,] outputs a processing request that requests execution, by the programmable controller, of a monitoring process relating [to] only to the [specified] portion of the window specified, and [for outputting, when receiving] receives a processing result of the monitoring process of the programmable controller that relates [to] only to the [specified] portion of the window [and that is] specified, based on the processing request[, the received processing result to the window].

16. (Amended) The [monitoring] method of monitoring a peripheral device of a programmable controller according to claim 11, [characterized by further] comprising[: a fourth step of] specifying, with input means, [an arbitrary] a portion of a window, [the monitoring method further characterized programmable controller corresponding to the window having the [specified] portion specified is output to execute a monitoring process relating to the [specified] portion specified.
